I do not speak Polish, so I am using Google Translate. Hopefully my question will not be lost in translation. I will post in English below the Polish Translation.

Last week I was in Pelplin, Poland to get copies of the records that I found for my family here on this site. Most records were there, but the woman in the records room told me that some of the records I was looking for were at the Archives in Gdansk. She showed me how to access them online, which I appreciated because by the time we arrived in Gdansk, there was not enough time to go to the Archives. They have very short hours.

Today I was looking for the records online and one of them I was not able to get. The record

Fiszrowa (spelling could be wrong)

So this record was not in Pelplin and it is not on the metryki.genbaza.pl site. All that was there for

No years in between. Does anybody know where I can obtain a digital copy of this record? Or a printed copy? This is my Great Great Grandmother, and I would love to get a copy of her birth record.

Thank you.

Hi.

https://www.familysearch.org/search/catalog/300730?availabil ity=Family%20History%20Library
there is no records from this year, as on site
https://szukajwarchiwach.pl/pradziad/92637?q=ko%C5%9Bcierzyn a+XTYPEro:pra&wynik=3&rpp=15&page=1

I think the books are destroyed or stolen by German Nazis f.e.
IF you have seen this book, I do not know how to help you to find it online, sorry. I think the best

Oh, what a stupidity If a records are indexed on PTG.gda.pl, the book was in a paper in our hands. So, look further.
