Hello,

it is not possible to find any military documentation about "normal" prussian soldiers because the archive of the prussian military in Potsdam was totally destroyed at the 14. April 1945 by an air strike. About oficiers there is a little more hope because of printed lists, books or listings in newspapers.
But sometimes you get information about normal soldiers also out of newspapers. But I do not know any archive for newspapers in this region. An other source might be the military church books. But for them you must know to which regiment somebody belong and you have to have the luck that is was not destroyed.

Best regards
